Implemented new VoIP Platform

national logistics company

The challenge

A multi-office logistics company approached us with a concern around their telecommunications expenses. They were paying thousands of dollars per month in dedicated circuits and telephone service.

What we did navitend's consulting team analyzed their telecom services and made a number of recommendations including new internet service and a new VOIP phone platform.

The result

Today, this business has reduced their monthly telecom investment by nearly a thousand dollars per month, their multiple offices have three digit extension dialing between them and they have higher internet speeds as well.
